(Pocket-lint) - since Samsung removed the physical house key on its devices - way back when the S8 launched - the method of taking a screenshot changed, and with a modern Samsung Galaxy S device, like the S22 series, you can end up launching Bixby carrying the shutdown screen instead. So how do you take a screenshot on your Galaxy S21 or S22? (u, in fact, older device such as the Galaxy S9, Galaxy S10, Galaxy S20)? There are several different options, with some Samsung additions to make it more useful than your average Android device. That's it, Samsung supports the conventional Android method of taking a screenshot by pressing the power button: Make sure that the content you want to capture is showing on the screen. Press the volume down and the standby/power button on the right side at the same time - but only briefly, not for long, the screen will be captured, flashing and saving on the album / folder screenshots in the gallery. If you are praying much older hardware, from the Galaxy S7 before, these devices instead of a combination of the waiting button and the home button, you will need to make sure that this is a quick pressure of the two buttons - any device you own - because one more pressed e-hold will launch the power control screen. Pocket Pocket the next thing to know about screenshot in a Galaxy S series is smart capture - which is now called screen capture toolbar - will do much more for you. This is quite unique for Samsung and allows you to instantly do things for your screenshot, rather than having to go and open it in your gallery. Make sure that the toolbar is enabled in the advanced features > screenshots and screen recorder settings, it will be enabled by default; the configuration is called 'short toolbar aftercatch'. When you capture screen (using palm buttons or sliding, as described below), you will have additional options at the bottom of the pānāo in a banner (as shown above). You can Culture or sharing, but the more is the rolling capture, marked by arrows pointing down. Tap Roll capture to include parts of the display you can see, for example, in a long pāmāy - it really is. Do you want the original screen capture to be reported after the toolbar sharing? This can also be selected from Configurations > Avanhad Resources > Screenshots and Screen Recorder > "Delete after sharing the toolbar". An alternative motto that Samsung offers is one that is available for some generations, using a gesture control. This is how it works. Go to the Settlements > Avanhad Resources > Movements and Gestures > "Palm swipe to capture". With this option to alternate, slide your motion side through the display. You can slide left or right, both work. The screen will be captured, flashing and saving in the screenshot captures / folder in the gallery. Note that if you have dominated the button by pressing and you don't want to slide to capture, you can turn off the palm slip so that it never happens - including by accident. This third mother is not a full screen capture, but it is a very very way to capture information that is on the display, using a feature called Smart Select. If you were a Note user in the past, some of these may seem familiar. Smart Select is a border panel, which you can slide into the edge screen (when activated). Kovol offers 42% off in desktop and wall loaders for the first day by pocket-lint promotion 8 July 2022 These are some neglects that you can not afford to lose luxury! It is up to the screen configurations > display > "pānāo" (is of edge) and ensure that this is connected. Click this menu and you can activate the border panel Select Smart - Select Parana © is rolling to the right to You can activate vein panel types, such as apps as well. I will come to the pamigation you want to capture. Open the edge panel with a sliding on the screen side. This can take swipes with the pānāo © is qualified.
